The City of San José is in the midst of a 30-year, $2 billion Capital Improvement Program (CIP) to rebuild aging infrastructure and integrate revolutionary new treatment technologies in its processes at the San José - Santa Clara Regional Wastewater Facility. The 167 MGD Facility is the largest tertiary treatment plant in the western United States, serving 1.4 million residents and 17,000 business-related sewer connections in an eight-city area. The Facility operates on a 24/7 basis and must remain in full operation for fully compliant discharge at all times during the implementation of the CIP.

Join us to hear Kapil Verma, P.E., Principal Engineer of the Environmental Services Department - CIP, and Steve Swanback, P.E., Carollo Engineers, Program Management for the Facility CIP, present an overview of the Facility CIP and provide an update on specific projects that are underway. Learn about exciting new technologies and methods to improve treatment process efficiency and reliability that are being implemented to update a 60 year old Facility and meet future wastewater challenges.
